

GARDENING PROBLEMS for 2010

Thank you for applying to Beechgrove Garden to have your gardening problem solved. This is a chance for you to identify a small-scale improvement project in your garden, which needs a quick burst of Beechgrove expertise to find a solution. Some examples are: pruning difficulties; specific fruit and vegetable problems; how to stock a greenhouse; problems with mossy/waterlogged/ uneven lawns; planting under large trees; what to plant in exposed sites; pernicious weeds; pests and diseases.

We are looking for enthusiastic people willing to get involved and assist us in solving their particular problem. We like to cover a wide variety of projects, so it can be common problems faced by many gardeners or more unusual items specific to your particular location. This is NOT A MAKEOVER but the solving of a particular niggling problem you have in your garden. You must be prepared to assist with the work on the day to achieve a finished solution.

Where applicable, it is your responsibility to obtain Local Authority planning permission and any other relevant permits.

Each successful recipient will receive-

- Plants and materials to a value appropriate to solve the problem.
- Help and advice from the Beechgrove Team during the course of the project.
- BBC Scotland's Beechgrove Garden will broadcast a short insert about the project.

I/We the undersigned understand and agree to accept responsibilities put to us in this form and accept that information on this application form may be passed on to the BBC and their agents for publicity and administration purposes.
